Art Unit: 1648

Claims 2 and 23 are pending. Claim 2 is free of the prior art and would be allowable if amended to an independent form.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Diamond et al. (US Patent No. 6,156,317) in view of Gallina et al. (JOURNAL OF VIROLOGY, 1999 February, 73 (2) 1468-78) for reasons of record.

Applicant's arguments filed August 12, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Essentially, applicants argue that Diamond et al. fails to disclose, discuss, mention or hint at mutant pp65 protein. Rather, Diamond et al. teach peptides which are not mutant forms of viral protein, but rather small peptides based on a wild type sequence according to applicants.

The examiner contends that applicants' representation of Diamond et al. is incorrect. The examiner concedes that Diamond et al. do in fact teach small peptides based on wild type pp65 protein (epitopes), however, the complete teachings of Diamond et al. are not so limited. That is, the patent clearly teaches, at column 11, that in order to determine the precise epitope of interest, a series of vaccinia truncations that deleted the pp65 protein from the carboxyl towards the amino terminus were made. Applicants' claim 23 merely recites "pp65 mutant". Applicants are reminded that the pp65 deletion (or truncation) of Diamond et al. is a mutant.

Art Unit: 1648

Again, the instant term mutant is broad and encompasses deletions, substitutions, etc. The fact that Diamond et al. refer to their pp65 truncation(s), rather than as mutant(s) is merely a matter of semantics since deletion mutants were clearly generated.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
